Openview is a team of professionals united by the different capabilities of each one of its members. The company had its beginnings in 2007 when a software firm and some experts in the communications industry decided to come together. Since then, we have broadened our know-how and are now in a position to offer our clients a complete and integrated service in the technology and communications fields. We are active participants in the future of the digital and communications worlds helping our clients orient themselves for tomorrow, while always keeping an eye on resolving their problems today.
